| Central Intelligence Agency   |                 |
|---|-----------------|
| 8 8 9   |                 |
|   |                 |
| Washington, D. C. 20505   |                 |
| DIRECTORATE OF INTELLIGENCE   |                 |
| 19 September 1984   |                 |
| TRENDS IN NICARAGUAN SUPPORT FOR SUBVERSION   | 25X             |
| Summary   |                 |
| subversion against non-Marxist governments in the region through arms flows, training, communications support and advice. Salvadoran guerrillas remain the primary recipient. Other groups especially Costa Rican and Honduran, have also benefitted.   | ·,              |
| * *   | 25X1            |
|   | 25X             |
| point to a continuing flow of munitions and manpower from Nicaragua to the Salvadoran guerrillas.   | _5,             |
| At times the quantity is considerable:  | 25X             |
|   | 25X             |
|   |                 |
|   |                 |
| This memorandum was requested by the Honorable Robert C. McFarlane, Asssistant to the President for National Security Affairs. It was prepared by   | 25X             |
| McFarlane, Asssistant to the President for National Security  Affairs. It was prepared by  Middle America-Caribbean Division, Office of African  and Latin American Analysis. It was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations. Information available as of 19  September 1984. Comments and questions are welcome and should be   | 25X             |
| McFarlane, Asssistant to the President for National Security  Affairs. It was prepared by  Middle America-Caribbean Division, Office of African and Latin American Analysis. It was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations. Information available as of 19 September 1984. Comments and questions are welcome and should be addressed to Chief, Middle America-Caribbean Division,                    | 25Xe25X |
| McFarlane, Asssistant to the President for National Security  Affairs. It was prepared by  Middle America-Caribbean Division, Office of African  and Latin American Analysis. It was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations. Information available as of 19  September 1984. Comments and questions are welcome and should be addressed to Chief, Middle America-Caribbean Division,  ALA-M-84-100946 | 25X e 25X c 25X |
| McFarlane, Asssistant to the President for National Security  Affairs. It was prepared by  Middle America-Caribbean Division, Office of African and Latin American Analysis. It was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations. Information available as of 19 September 1984. Comments and questions are welcome and should be addressed to Chief, Middle America-Caribbean Division,                    | 25Xc25X |

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/01/21 : CIA-RDP04T00367R000100400001-8

| supplie   | Cuba was up deliveries of weapons and other military es through Nicaragua to El Salvador in preparation e insurgents' fall offensive.  | 25X25X |
|---|--|------------|
|   | the llas had received a new offer from Nicaraqua to munitions and personnel needs when required.   | 25X        |
|   |  | 25X        |
|   |  |            |
| We currentalvadoran que:  | tly estimate that roughly three quarters of the  |            |
| erhaps one thenfiltratedinevels of earleeriod and gues  | rrilas' needs are met by external resupply, and ird or more of their small arms requirements are not the latter case a substantial reduction from the ier years due to large arms flows during that rrilla success in capturing arms in El Salvador. entire flow originates in or passes through   |            |
| erhaps one the offiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltrated and guesticaragua.  groups  | ird or more of their small arms requirements are notice that the latter case a substantial reduction from the lier years due to large arms flows during that the crilla success in capturing arms in El Salvador.  | 25)25X |
| erhaps one the offiltrated—infiltrated—infiltrated—inevels of earlieriod and quentrually the officaraqua.  groups the two   | ird or more of their small arms requirements are the latter case a substantial reduction from the ier years due to large arms flows during that rilla success in capturing arms in El Salvador. entire flow originates in or passes through  Salvadoran guerrilla were still headquartered in Nicaraguaincluding   |            |
| erhaps one the offiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltratedinfiltrated and guest intually the officaragua.  groups the two support forceive high-leaden and infiltrated and infiltrate | ird or more of their small arms requirements are in the latter case a substantial reduction from the ier years due to large arms flows during that rilla success in capturing arms in El Salvador. entire flow originates in or passes through  Salvadoran guerrilla were still headquartered in Nicaraquaincluding o largest, the ERP and the FPL.  or subversion in Central America continues to | 25X        |

-- A political section, coordinating aid requests from foreign insurgent groups, consists of separate branches for El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and even Costa Rica.

-- A special operations section, which carries out the deliveries, has separate branches for land, air, and sea transport. 25X1 A major new training facility for Salvadoran guerrillas has heen identified this summer on the Cosiquina Peninsula, across 25X1 the Gulf of Fonseca from El Salvador. a military barracks under construction near Santa Julia was intended for that purpose. 25X1 25¥1 since April 1984 25X1 construction of 19 buildings has been completed or is underway, as well as a small arms range, air obstacle course, and a possible training site for the SA-7, the shoulder-fired anti-aircraft missile of Soviet bloc manufacture. This camp's use of natural concealment and the nonmilitary layout of the buildings indicate the installation is for unconventional warfare training. 25X1 -- Just southeast of the camp is a staging area (Potosi), a known transshipment point for infiltrating men, arms, and munitions into El Salvador. 25X1 the number of Salvadoran guerrillas assembled in Nicaragua for training or staging purposes in 1984 may have increased over what we believe has been the case since 1979. 25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

25X1

as of July 1984 the FMLN had about 4000 Salvadorans training in various Nicaraguan Though the numbers far exceed our earlier estimates of several hundred Salvadoran insurgent personnel in Nicaraqua--

mav

reflect some accumulation of Salvadoran manpower for the reported planned fall offensive by the FMLN. It may also indicate that the FMLN is using Nicaragua to conduct training no longer possible to carry out in El Salvador due to Salvadoran army pressures.

So extensive has been the Nicaraguan support effort for Salvadoran insurgents that in private conversations Nicaraguan officials no longer conceal Managua's direct involvement, though they do try to minimize the extent. For example:

-- In May 1984, during farewell conversations with the US Ambassador to Managua, Interior Minister Borge said that Salvadoran communications facilities in Nicaragua were no longer essential to the FMLN, but it was impossible to close them down unilaterally. Bayardo Arce said that just as the US denied mining the ports, so Nicaragua denied aiding the Salvadorans; both knew the truth.

Nicaraguan insurgent operations have occasionally impeded Managua's support to the FMLN.

-- Facilities in Nicaragua were attacked last fall and early this year. At least one transshipment point was badly damaged.

The Nicaraguans are continuing to support other Marxist insurgencies, although at levels below the major Salvadoran effort.

25X1

-- In mid-1983 and mid-1984 the Sandinistas infiltrated into Honduras a total of 110-120 Honduran insurgents trained in Nicaragua and Cuba. A combination of desertions and effective counterinsurgency action by Honduran security forces thwarted both attempts with apparent ease.

insurgents have provided abundant details on their training. One of the Hondurans stated that part of his training included serving with an international unit fighting anti-Sandinistra forces in Nicaragua.

25X1

25X1

25X1

-- We believe that the Sandinistas, despite their recent overtures for improved bilateral relations with Honduras, continue to view their meddling operations as a possible way to force short-term concessions from Tegucigalpa while establishing a base for longer term subversion of the government.

Sandinista sponsorship of destabilization in Costa Rica has continued.

- -- The Sandinistas have maintained close ties to Costa Rican communists, several hundred of whom entered Nicaragua late last year, were trained and equipped by the Nicaraguans and as the Mora Canas Brigade fought anti-Sandinista insurgents in southern Nicaragua until July 1984.
- -- The recall of these field experienced combatants to Costa Rica has added to the potential for political instability in that country.

Elsewhere in the region there have been fragmentary reports of Nicaraguan mischief-making since the beginning of the year.

25X1

25X1 SUBJECT: Trends in Nicaraguan Support for Subversion DISTRIBUTION 1 - Robert C. McFarlane Copy # 2 - DCI 3 - DDCI 4 - Executive Director 5 - SA/DCI 6 - DDI 7 - ADDI 8 - NIO/LA9 - D/ALA10 - NIC/AG 11 -12 - C/DDI/PES 13, 14 - ALA/PS 15 - ALA/RD16 - DDI/CPAS/ISS 17, 18, 19, 20 - CPAS/IMC/CB 21 - C/MCD 22 - DC/MCD 23 - C/CAS 24, 25, 26 - NU Desk Analysts 27 - MCD Files 28, 29 - CA Files

DDI/ALA/MCD/CAN/

(19 September 1984)

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/01/21: CIA-RDP04T00367R000100400001-8

25X1

